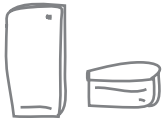
Find a small open space with possible internet access. Can be public, private, and/or social (art studio, gallery, museum, or a café).

Choose an artwork open to play with participatory public involving images from the internet.

Choose to work with either monitor/s or projector/s to integrate images of the public. Think about light conditions to run possibly 24/7.

Use a digital camera with permanent power supply. Take an image from your art/space to test, and adjust, if necessary.



Find a PC, can be an old one, install Linux onto, then a script from us to show your work not only onsite, but also online at the same time.

Connect PC to the Internet, Camera to PC via USB, and release your mikrogalleri online ! Consult us for experience and technical support at any point, if you like. At mikrogalleri.es are forums, manuals, and emails around to make ...

... your on site art online !
